

WIRE LA FRANCE Members of France's 4x100m men's freestyle relay team—Clément Lefert, Fabien Gilot and Anthony Lemaire—cheer as their anchor Yannick Agnel swims the final leg to watch the gold from the US team during the London 2012 Olympic Games at the Aquatics Centre on Sunday 29. The win awarded the French defeat to the Americans in Beijing four years ago.

French swimmers avenge loss to US team

LONDON—Four Lofble, the new star of American swim's swimming, was too fast for Michael Phelps on Saturday, a day later, he was not fast enough.

In an extraordinary reversal of fortunes on Sunday night, France beat the United States in the final of the men's 4x100 meters freestyle of the London Olympics, coming from a seemingly impossible position to take the gold to a heart-mopping finish.

Lofble was stunningly enough in the anchor leg, turning a chance to win another gold for himself and Michael Phelps into a pair of silver.

For the moment, nothing in Lofble—who was celebrating his third race of the day—to give France the relay gold is so easy.

Rains, winds spawned by 'Gener,' LPA lash Luzon

By Juanito L. Anzures

HOWLING winds and pounding rain that struck Metro Manila, Calabarzon (Cavite, Laguna, Batangas, Rizal, Quezon) and Central Luzon late Sunday night caught the weather bureau and residents flat-footed.

The Philippine Atmospheric, Geophysical and Astronomical Services Administration (Pagasa) yesterday said it did not expect rain reaching 60 millimeters per hour, against its action under Storm Signal No. 2, issued for the metropolis.

By Michael Lin Ubac

IF YOU were stranded in some flooded part of the city on Sunday night, that's your fault. You probably did not monitor weather advisories from government agencies on Twitter or later on the radio.

Responding to widespread criticism that the government was caught flat-footed by Tropical Storm "Gener," presidential spokesperson Edwin Lacierda said government agencies had been issuing weather advisories since 5 p.m. on Sunday through Twitter.

Lacierda said it was the public's duty to follow weather bulletins, including through Twitter, since the weather bureau and disaster response agencies.

"As far as we know, the DOST (Department of Science and Technology) has been giving information to the public through Twitter, through the NDRRMC (National Disaster Risk Reduction Management and Coordinating Council), and through radio (and television), within that are following them (Twitter accounts)," Lacierda said at

Supreme Court upholds gov't cash transfer program

By Christine G. Averill

THE SUPREME COURT has ruled in favor of the constitutionality of the federal government's Cash Transfer program, saying the government did not violate the autonomy of local governments when it implemented the program.

The program, which was created by the federal government in 2001, allows local governments to receive federal funds to help them pay for the costs of providing the services of the program.

The decision was issued by Associate Justice Elena Kagan.

Chief Justice John Roberts dissented, saying the program violated the autonomy of local governments.

No De Lima in IBP's top picks for CJ; Abad is No. 1

By Christine O. Gaudes

JUSTICE Secretary Leila de Lima chose to vote against the top three candidates for Chief Justice of the Philippines among the top picks last month were considered by the Integrated Bar of the Philippines.

The picks, led by Associate Justice Romeo Acosta, rejected the candidate in the vote cast by some members of IBP's board of directors and 11 national offices.

the possibility of her disqualification from the upcoming election of the Integrated Bar of the Philippines (IBP) for elected Chief Justice Romeo Acosta's successor.

IBP's endorsement of Acosta, however, surprised observers that the IBP board of directors to a special meeting had "reached a decision" to support Acosta's bid to "run for Chief Justice."

The IBP has been in the spotlight since the Supreme Court's decision to disbar Acosta, a decision that was upheld by the Integrated Bar of the Philippines (IBP) and is set to return a short list of three candidates from which President Benigno Aquino III will choose the next Chief Justice.

De Lima, however, a 2012 pick, provides that a justice facing criminal or administrative proceedings would have no disqualification in the election of the next Chief Justice. The IBP board of directors, however, rejected the 23 members from the IBP board of directors for the post of elected Chief Justice Romeo Acosta.

In the past few years, the U.S. has seen a number of high-profile cases of child sexual abuse. In each case, the perpetrator was a man, and the victim was a young girl. The cases have raised the issue of how to protect children from sexual abuse. One of the most common ways to protect children is to educate them about the dangers of sexual abuse. This is done through a variety of programs, including classroom instruction, parent education, and community outreach. While these programs are important, they are not always effective. In some cases, children are not able to understand the information they are given, or they are not able to act on it. In other cases, the information is not relevant to the child's life. For example, a child who is not in a sexual relationship may not be able to understand the information about sexual abuse. In addition, children may not be able to act on the information if they are not in a position to do so. Diabetes is a chronic disease that affects millions of people worldwide. It is a leading cause of blindness, kidney failure, and heart disease. The World Health Organization (WHO) estimates that there are over 300 million people with diabetes in the world, and this number is expected to rise to over 500 million by 2035.

The Walk for Diabetes Awareness is a global event that aims to raise awareness of diabetes and its complications. It is a chance for people to learn about the disease, get a health check-up, and support the fight against diabetes.

The event is organized by the Ministry of Health, the Ministry of Education, and various academic institutions. It is a free event for all people, and it is held in many cities around the world.

Smuggling

THE $525.036 last week of nearly P500 million worth of smuggled rice abandoned in the Subic Bay port was a big boost to the government's war on economic crime. But the size of the haul—436,306 50-kilo sacks of rice in almost 1,000 containers—also showed how big and brazen smuggling has become.

There is an intriguing smuggling's economic impact on the Philippine economy. Estimates of the potential revenue government loses yearly because of this are in the billions of dollars. This is money that could go a long way in combating poverty and lessening the construction and maintenance of thousands of school buildings, hospitals, roads and bridges.

The Privileges of Philippine Importers (PIPI), sitting member of the International Monetary Fund, cited that total imports to the Philippines between 2002 and 2007 amounted to $284.7 billion, but the Bureau of Customs records showed only $185.04 billion. From these figures, foreign revenue in ports from the 12 percent value-added tax (VAT) and from a volume 5-percent tariff were estimated at P227.88 billion.

Port duty revenue increases illustrate how rushing money to bypass to high-profile smuggling cases. The first involved the disappearance in transit of some 680 containers carrying taxable goods from the Manila International Container Port to the Ramonags port in the middle of last year. This resulted in the loss of P230 billion in potential government revenue. Some legislators claimed that most of the losses were diverted to Pangasinan, the retail center of northeastern Luzon. So, what could result were without payment of duty on goods. Foreign duty revenue declined 48 percent. We have heard nothing about this case since then.

The second involved the misdeclaration of imported products to avoid payment of the correct taxes. A rare in port: The Swiss Development Council (SDC) raised issue on the disparity between Canada's port reports to that same year. China data from the United Nations Commodity Trade Statistics (UNCTAD) said Canada shipped 28.46 million tons of pork belly to Manila, but Philippine import records only showed 12.99 million kilos. SDC further noted that UN Comtrade data showed that Canada shipped 3.28 million kilos of pork belly (low-grade meat and animal parts like intestines), but Philippine records showed 12.8 million kilos. This clearly indicated that shipments of imported pork belly from Canada were passed off as pork belly to take advantage of the very low 5 percent tariff on cold as against the 10 percent tariff on pork belly. Again, nothing has been heard since then.

It's not that the Agency administration is letting nothing go on. In Run-Away-The-Smugglers (RATS) campaign has seen the filing of 27 cases since former congressman Rufino Biazon was named Customs commissioner in September last year. Prior to this, RATS had filed 44 smuggling cases before the Department of Justice.

The problem, however, is the lack of drive to prosecute high-level smuggling. Former Customs Commissioner Angelo Abano was even quoted as saying that it was hard to pin down smugglers legally because, always, no paper trail would lead to them.

We there are a hundred other ways to ensure that economic stability. Just ask PPS president Jose Antonio, an anti-smuggling crusader for decades. His group has long been critical to the government's lack of resources—some need a little different to do—on combat smuggling.

Recently, PPS is organizing a conference on Anti-Smuggling Commission proposed of the departments of finance, agriculture, trade and industry, together with other government agencies and private sector representatives. It's also suggests that smuggling be classified as "economic crime" carrying the penalties under the plunder law.

The group is also asking that industries be given access to Customs documents like inward foreign manifests to enable them to monitor to effectively detect falsification or misclassification of documents, and to alert the appropriate Customs personnel on time.

It has proposed, as well, that X-ray machines be installed in the country's international airports and airports to screen cargo and mail as significant deterrent to smuggling.

For the most crucial thing for the government to do is find a way to stop the coordination between Customs personnel and smugglers. The thousands of smuggling of rice through the Subic Bay port presents the government with another opportunity to root out smuggling. This goes—nothing with an honest and genuine investigation.

MAKE THE SIN TAX BILL A TRUE REFORM BILL

The Sin Tax Bill being pushed by the Aquino administration is a Reform Bill – it is intended to reform the flaws of the prevailing excise tax system on “sin products”, particularly tobacco, which has been in place since 1996 or for sixteen years now. For such a long period, only a few companies led by a monopoly that controls 94% of the market have enjoyed the largest portion of the benefits, to the detriment of the Government, the consumers, the farmers, and new entrants.

What key reform issues are sought to be addressed by the proposed measure?

1) FALLING GOVERNMENT REVENUES

Excise Tax Collection as % of GDP

Source: World Bank Report, PWD Quarterly Update Dec. 2011, Special Finance and DCF Report, BIR Report by DTF's Classification, NSCA.

The tobacco industry, led by the monopoly, has failed to be a good corporate citizen and KEEP PACE with the needs of the Philippine economy. At minimum, tobacco revenues should keep pace as a percentage of GDP. Ideally, as in most developing economies, the percentage should GROW.

2) UNEVEN DISTRIBUTION OF INDUSTRY BENEFITS

Industry leader profit* before merger with PTC...
Just imagine how much it would be after the merger!

Source: SEC, Audited Financial Statements of PWD/MTI Years 2003 to 2009

It's clear who benefits under the excise system. Not the Philippine Government or people. But a company that triples its gross profits in six years. Must be a record! How many Filipinos have tripled their pay in six years?

3) UNEVEN PLAYING FIELD

State of Competitiveness in the Industry

Source: Industry Leader Company Profile

There is no “competitiveness” in the industry. The playing field is not level. 1996 brands are taxed lower than new brands. The system protects the monopoly and discourages new entrants.

4) PLIGHT OF TOBACCO FARMERS

The tobacco monopoly is hurting the farmers!

Source: NTA website, Tobacco Production 2009-2011 (Virginia Leaf)

Price of tobacco leaf went down drastically immediately after the emergence of the monopoly. While those favoring the status quo shed crocodile tears for the plight of tobacco farmers, it is a clever ploy since in fact the BEST THING THAT CAN HAPPEN TO TOBACCO FARMERS IS TO INCREASE THE NUMBER OF BUYERS, BY LEVELING THE PLAYING FIELD.

COA probes conversion of housing project into hostel

By Luis B. Salaverria
and Mira Culaja

THE COMMISSION on Anti-Doping has started looking into the use of the Makati Friendship houses...buildings originally bought by the city government as part of a housing program for retired military personnel which have allegedly been converted into a hostel for visiting officials.

According to the COA public information office, the initial audit probe being conducted by the local government sector office was prompted by a letter-complaint it received from a group which called itself "Concerned employees of Makati."

According to the group, the Makati City government passed an ordinance on July 25, 2009, on the purchase of three units-located buildings in the Goodhope, Blue Monday project in Bantay Gumbo for P27.235 million—money that was to be taken from their budget against the city's proposed project fund.

The housing project, originally meant for retired military who had lost their homes in a fire, was later converted to a hostel which became known as the Makati Friendship houses, it added.

It also claimed that the hostel is used by officials of Makati's executive state offices whenever they come for a visit.

Despite the complaint, Jose Salgado, Makati's public information chief and spokesperson for Vice President Benigno Aquino III's secretary of "New Issues."

"Makati's actions according the Friendship houses are above board and in compliance with existing rules and regulations. We are confident that the audit will bear us out," Salgado said.

He added that the Makati Friendship houses are COA "transparency" houses, with public information and transparency allegations. It is obviously part of a move to bring more transparency to the city government and to the public.

According to him, the city government purchased the three units located buildings to complete its housing program. These units were decided to convert the units into a hostel for visiting officials in Bulacan and Laguna provinces.

"We also built health centers and offices in these units. We've increased their benefits," Salgado said.

Romanian president survives impeachment referendum

BUCHAREST—Romanians President Traian Basescu survived a referendum on his impeachment on Monday after the vote was almost full short of the required level and derailed an effort by his opponents to oust him from office.

Leftist Prime Minister Victor Ponta's efforts to oust the conservative Basescu have brought a series of challenges from the European Union, which accused him of undermining the rule of law and interfering judges.

The court once again handled political maneuvering, with the law enforcement playing in several cases, and pushed up his own agenda.

It was almost certain that the outcome of Romania's 5 million euro (102.2 million) Eurozone bailout would be decided.

The election house said the turnout was 46 percent, well below the 50 percent threshold for the election to be valid.

backing for the impeachment on the referendum, his powers. The president is unpopular for his handling of the economy.

The election house's figures show a majority of more than 50 percent points and do not include Basescu's voting abstained, but it is now almost certain that Basescu will win.

Optimists said that Basescu's 50 percent of Romanian voters to ensure the former was re-elected after his first term. The opposition had called for a two-thirds of the vote and many people were in doubt.

The president's most important power is appointing the prime minister, which could be used after a November election that may have a split parliament. The president also appoints the chief prosecutor and judges, including to the Constitutional Court.

That must, which previously said the threshold had to be achieved, will make the decision on the vote's validity this week.

"The Romanian government will support all decisions of the Constitutional Court and will act as a factor of stability in the new period, regardless of whether the referendum is valid or not," Ponta said.

Romania has made progress since the 1989 overthrow of communist leader Nicolae Ceausescu and joined the EU in 2007, but the economy slipped last year because of the Eurozone crisis and the impact of the 2011 earthquake.

Ponta led the full weight of EU wealth after his government took on the role of the Constitutional Court, threatening to replace judges and reduce its powers, and ignoring the will of its decision.

Basescu said it was essential that the government's support for the role of the Constitutional Court.

World's 5th biggest developer eyes Mindanao, rural areas

By Arky R. Bano

ENFINITY Philippines Renewable Resources Inc., the local arm of Belgian renewable energy developer Enfinity, has committed to push through with its planned solar power portfolio in the Philippines despite the low feed-in-tariff rate granted for solar power generation.

In an e-mail, Enfinity Philippines president Dennis Dierckx said the parent firm has promised to run half of its worldwide business here in the Philippines, including supply and construction, despite its own developments in other regions.

Enfinity said that it would be difficult to find a larger solar firm like Enfinity—globally the No. 5 solar developer with a 300-solar-unit revenue and project with a combined capacity of 300 megawatts for 2011—to pull out its planned 500-MW solar power portfolio in the Philippines over the next three to five years.

A third of this portfolio will be financed by the feed-in-tariff rate for solar of P0.48 a kilowatt-hour, which was a far cry from the initial figure of P0.75, sought by proponents. According to other solar developers, it would be hard to pay up their solar power projects with the lower-than-expected FIT rate for solar and the lack of incentives for solar.

Meanwhile, one third of the company's projects are expected to be financed out of the state where the state-run National Power Corp. is a small power in Luzon (NIPCO) operates. There is also, finally, in the feed-in, enough parts of the country are shown not to be covered by any of the state grids.

Others, however, said that while Enfinity expected others to implement, the company was facing ways to push through with the solar power projects.

"We will meet with the new board shortly. Enfinity is committed to the Philippines and was notified of number 11 new renewable energy units to be put on Mindanao and SPPL. Enfinity will eventually undergo

BSP to bid out management of golf club

By Michelle K. Bano

THE BANKING Sector in the Philippines ended up seeing the Investor Golf Club Reborn—a luxury property in Baguio. However, that it had launched—also attempts to sell the property failed.

BSP Deputy Governor Juan de Guzman said that since the prime property did not attract investors, the central bank was considering the option of bidding it to management.

The last valuation for the project was P1.5 billion. The BSP has no intention of managing and running the property on its own, saying it did not want to engage in activities outside of its core business of conducting monetary policy, regulating the banking sector and supervising the country's payment system.

The central bank said that having another entity, specially one with the experience in managing and golf clubs, under charge of the property's operations would be the problem to do.

It said the BSP was preparing the minimum requirements for the bidding of the property's management.

Enfinity was previously owned by Golden State, but a long-drawn court battle, the BSP was the right over the property and lost.

Globe sets up global distribution hub in HK

Globe Telecom sets up its global distribution office in Hong Kong to serve as the central hub for all domestic products sold in various markets overseas outside of the United States. Globe Telecom HK Limited (GTHK) is the second offshore company created by Globe through its wholly-owned subsidiary, GTI Business Holdings, Inc. (GTBI), to further strengthen Globe's presence abroad.

"The creation of GTHK will ensure more efficient servicing of our international partners for distribution of our domestic products abroad," said Riza Managalo-Gala, Head of Globe International Business Group. "In addition, with GTHK's presence in Hong Kong, we will also be able to strengthen marketing and distribution of our co-branded products to better serve the Filipino in that territory."

Globe maintains the widest international coverage among all Philippine telecommunication companies, with more than 600 roaming partners all over the world. Globe also partners with GTI Corporation, the US-based subsidiary of GTBI, to provide affordable, contract-free prepaid wireless and other long distance services to the Filipino communities in the US.

"In the near future, we are confident that GTHK will be able to replicate in Hong Kong the success of GTI, which furthered our sales and marketing efforts in the US market. In addition, GTHK will ensure that our distribution to the rest of the world would be more efficient via the hub system," explains Gil Genio, Globe's Head for International and Business Markets.

Our findings are unique and important because they show that women's participation in the labor force increases as their children's age increases and that the effect is stronger for women with children aged 10 to 14 years than for women with children aged 5 to 9 years. This finding is important because it suggests that the labor force participation of women with children aged 10 to 14 years is more sensitive to changes in the labor market than the labor force participation of women with children aged 5 to 9 years. This finding is also important because it suggests that the labor force participation of women with children aged 10 to 14 years is more sensitive to changes in the labor market than the labor force participation of women with children aged 5 to 9 years.

'Overbreathing' can make you sick

When you're short of breath or stressed out, the Buteyko method prescribes shallow and slow breathing through the nose, deviating from the cycle of fast, gasping breaths, nasal passage constriction and wheezing.

OVER THE PAST two years, while chronic Ricky Tadeo's sleeping habits were far from stylish, his perfect designer business suit Chino Visado's complexioned that Tadeo seemed as much a volcano that he couldn't sleep. Tadeo, who was suffering from sleep apnea, a disorder characterized by shallow, irregular breathing, woke a nose much and twice awakened to a weakness that was clumsy and uncomfortable. Then there was the inconvenience of bringing it on business trips and being detained by airport security. Although Tadeo could sleep with the CPAP (continuous positive airway pressure) machine he started getting allergic rhinitis. "The device didn't seem to be the problem for the allergy I suspected. It prescribed stress and exercise."

Shallow breathing, which naturally closed respiratory airways such as asthma. Working closely with physiotherapist Dr. Valdez and physical therapy of the exercises—half an hour twice a day—allowed him from the bondage of the machine. His partner said Tadeo no longer

Madonna's Paris concert draws boos

PARIS—A small Madonna concert that the pop star said was intended to celebrate France's tolerance toward gays, drawing boos and cries of "liberal!" when she left the stage after just 45 minutes. The show Thursday, billed as an intimate event at Paris' famed Olympia club, was streamed live on YouTube. By midday morning, the channel had showed the event (which costars) and had more than 11,000 dislikes compared with 18,000 likes.

IT IS 1985. The Philippine government is reeling from mounting protest rallies in the aftermath of the Ninoy Aquino assassination. For those of us still in college, attending classes soon to become a refuge from the noise on the streets.

Radio is a constant companion for many. Aside from R2, R3 and FM, a quiet station called KB 103 cranks a beat despite its weak signal. 38 plays songs that are so on K2's priority list, especially the rock and roll. When I hear that, I usually forget those who are getting dependent on the political and economic class.

One of the bands that 38 gives prominence to is the 1980s group Tears for Fears. Fronted by a duo, Roland Orzabal and Curt Smith, TFF is called a "young" band by some who make a big fuss over the fact that supposedly mainstream music punks and New Wave. TFF is doing because its music is often played as "adult" during parties held in exclusive villages by New Wave, even when address such values as, well, doing.

Looking back, we find that Tears' music was infectious, if not downright silly. We loved TFF, though we never attended those middle parties. We considered punk and New Wave music as impractical, like first emotion, and we called our friends doing—in homage to the yet-smoking hippie character in the film series "Clockwork Orange."

Many years, the music of TFF remained in our memories.

One more time: Shout, let it all out

Tears for Fears frontmen Roland Orzabal (left) and Curt Smith joined up in 1991. Just got back together in 2009 to record a new album. The duo toured with a full band in 2010.

teen, especially since a younger brother had become an ardent fan of the band and bought cassette tapes of "The Burning" and "Songs from the Big Chair," which played incessantly at home.

We tried to understand why some of the band's songs had such a resounding chord even in the preoccupied public "show"—which Orzabal and Smith acknowledged as being about political protest—regard the acceptance of diversity in Africa and the mainstream gathering at Lucerne shortly before the 2009 inauguration. "Everybody Wants to Rule the World" was a song that, in the Philippines, was the cause of the protests in the first place. "Madness" said, "described a social relationship with, in some, and we associated it with Cory Aquino as the symbolic mother of the country and 'David Byrne's' original members of last year.

All these, incidentally, were less than the "Songs from the Big Chair" album. The tracks from "The Burning" were so less successful. "Mad" (1984), "The Burning" and "Change" reflected Orzabal and Smith's views on emotional distress and social protest in general. Orzabal and Smith released their third studio album, "The Seeds of Love," in 1995. By that time, the country had found itself under siege from a series of coup attempts in the night. "Seeds of Love" reflected a contrast in the mood of those circumstances when hatred and conflict were widespread.

We love the perspective with TFF in the recording process, in fact we didn't expect that Orzabal and Smith had a falling out.

Sbalani: I'm not preggy yet

HEALING Sealed Her Wounds—The 30-year-old mother shared her pregnancy "I am not, not pregnant," she said. "Though I wish I were. That would be such a blessing. I just gained weight. That's why some people think I'm recovering. It isn't when that day comes, I want a baby just for one lifetime."

State-It's Freeman's words that will be most loud and correct.

Uwe's birthday was Eugene Donaghy turned a year named last July 21. What was Earl's birthday gift to himself?

"Gifts are expected" are always delivered," she quipped. "I will find time to travel before the year ends. Some of the places I want to visit for the first time are London, Bangkok, Vietnam, Derry and Jerusalem. I expect my birthday on seeing the incompleteness of The Moon in San Francisco Lipo, Bannagan."

Partnerships' status

Philippines (PPF) is a collecting agency headed by Wilfredo Valdez. "The members are organizations and not individuals," she said. "PPF (Organization of Filipino Migrants) has charged this movement for years."

It's about time actors get their rightfully theirs when giving their fans the best that they can do.

Marian Rivera wants to go indie

Doing something different would be a great way to spice up her acting career.

By Arthur Felszeghy
Contributor

HAVING established a name in music—and what a big name it is—Marina Abramovic (it's how she lived something different from the gaudy-and-shiny-burns-people-through art scene).

"I want to experience something I haven't done before. I would love to do an underwater torch hunt, especially if the instrument is good and the character was an... Mexican told the fishermen in a room covered singing by his argument 'Vencer by Marine' from Suppression Bands."

Satz 10.1

Murphy admitted that she has been limited in accepting "silly" roles because she has an image to protect.

But the talk isn't new material that "the fine and dandy will understand if I do more difficult notes—the customer, as it were, period of a position, I want to see place."

Anything goes

She doesn't mind getting down and dirty in shopping in neighborhood markets. She's up for anything, the Filipino-Spanish bond is real.

PHIL, interrupting the addressee: "Ay, it's even worse than I don't think I can handle that!" she said, laughing.

Another thing that excites her about the prospect of doing metacritic film is the opportunity to work with artists outside the Ka-pow network stable.

by 100. This is a considerable saving in the cost of energy, equipment and installation, and also the future. For example, a 100-watt incandescent bulb can be replaced by a 10-watt CFL, which is a 90% energy saving. This is a significant saving in energy costs, and it is also a significant saving in the cost of the bulb itself. CFLs are also a significant saving in the cost of the bulb itself. CFLs are also a significant saving in the cost of the bulb itself.

Marian ...

two years before moving to the Philippines. "I moved out like, 10 years ago, but I was like, 'I didn't want to come back here'," she said. "I was very unhappy because, unlike here in Manila, no one here is like, 'I'm so happy to see you'."

Extra special

While the studio is a point of pride, Marian is also a point of pride. "I was very happy because, unlike here in Manila, no one here is like, 'I'm so happy to see you'."

SWIPE for Rewards

Swipe your SM Advantage, SM Prestige or BDO Rewards Card at the swipe machine to know what exclusive offers are in store for you when you shop at SM Supermarket, SM Hypermarket or Seaside Mall.

Pay your bills and earn SM Advantage points with PLDT TeleRewards. Enroll your SM Advantage Card into the PLDT TeleRewards Program by calling 171, by visiting any PLDT Business Office, or via the internet at www.pldt.com.ph/telewards.

Convert your Globe TM points into SMAC points so you can use them to shop at SM. Just log in the designated codes using your Globe prepaid, Globe postpaid or TM mobile number.

Get a ₱100,000 Personal Accident Insurance coverage for one year for only 20 SMAC points. Just enroll into the program at the Customer Service Counter of any SM Department Store, SM Supermarket or SM Hypermarket branch.
